Stu's News

Hello!

I'm about to go through the second Christmas with y'all. It's hard to believe.

I want to say thank you for all that we've shared and all that we will share. The laughter and tears mingle well and remind us that we are alive.

I recently read a Christmas letter that started out with all the joys and yet all the way through those joys, you could see a but coming in the story that unfolded. My friend proceeded to make comments about our world.

Wars continue to rage, hunger wipes out little lives while here in the states we throw more food away than we eat, or it seems that way.

I'm not sure how we should enter 2026. But ignorance is not an excuse. As followers of Jesus Christ we always have the standing invitation to walk in his steps. I look forward to 2026 and being a part of the Trinity community of Faith walking in Christ's footsteps.

New

By: Paige Howard

Breathe in.

The new air reaches my lungs as my night flips to day.

What will be the change?

Breathe out.

The new year thrill that rolls from the top of my head to the tip of my tongue.

What will I shout from my lungs?

Breathe in.

Every thought and feeling I have for a new year;
it entrails my being as I think about the new being I'll be.

What's in store for me?

Breathe out.

A newness that will walk with me and a newness that will only pass by for a momentary hello.

What shall I hold or let go?

Breathe in.

A wide open new year I'll hold dear but I'll let go looking into the distance that cannot be predicted.

What can I know about what the future has written?

Breathe out.

Only this, the comfort of knowing that the new year gives me a new beginning;
it offers me only to take life one step at a time,
to allow my breath to balance and align,
to let my heart beat steady as I live my life.

Only this: the comfort of knowing that every day I'm here, I can conquer this important, simple task.

Breathe in, Breathe out.
